AURORA FIDDLE SOCIETY

Aurora Fiddle Society promotes fiddling in Yellowknife and the North Slave Region through fiddle jams, workshops and other fiddle-related events. We bring people of all ages together to enjoy fiddle music, and work cooperatively with other organizations to the benefit of fiddling.

The Society builds on the traditions of Strings Across the Sky, founded in the High Arctic in 1988 by Andrea Hansen while she was a member of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. Twenty years later, the Yellowknife chapter of Strings Across the Sky evolved into an independently registered Society.

Benefits of membership include an invitation to participate in regular fiddle jams, as well as notification of fiddling workshops, music camps, special events, and other fiddle activities (via email bulletins). The fiddle jams provide a unique opportunity to learn together as a group, from first time fiddlers to the more experienced players. This supportive environment reflects the Scottish tradition of a ceillidh (pronounced "kay-ley"), where musicians of all ages and skills come together informally to make music.
